

Letter of recommendation Alex Verlek

To whom it may concern:

I recommend Alex Verlex for his performance as a trainer and coach. People really appreciate his authenticity. He dares to be vulnerable and honest about himself, but also works clearly towards a result. He is aware of his impact and uses it to influence others to make a step in their own development. He is very creative in using different learning concepts especially to make the training a playful yet impactful experience for others. He is flexible and adapts well to change and unexpected situations. He also works well together with other trainers, supporting them and achieving a good team result. He connects well with people at different levels within an organisation. His approach is very personal, which also helps to reach a deeper connection with others and self reflection of others.

Alex has succesfully performed as a trainer and coach in important projects of Blanchard International, such as Social Aspects of Leadership, personal coaching and DISC training.

You can call me, if you have any questions.
