

ROXANE LOISEAUX

I am energetic and determined, and care passionately about what I do.
I am happy to take the initiative as well as to play a constructive part in a team.
I can adapt to different situations easily. I am always interested in learning, growing, meeting new people and experiencing different cultures.
What drives me is to encourage people to believe in their abilities and support them in the creation of the life they want.

Work experience

Since December 2007

Freelance Personal and Executive Coach, Trainer/Facilitator

I am a CTI Front of Room Leader trainee and I am working as an associate with The Oxford Leadership Academy and Augere.

I design and run philosophy workshops in Bristol and Bransford, 'cafés philosophiques', which are discussion evenings on modern life through the lenses of different philosophers.

I have my own coaching practice, including personal and executive clients.

March 2006 to November 2007.

Augere & Asociados S.L. and Augere Foundation

Project Manager, Executive Coach, Facilitator

- I was involved in marketing and selling the CTI training programme in Spain, and liaising with the CTI Home Office in the USA, and represented Augere at meetings of CTI international partners.
- I worked twice as an interpreter on the CTI training programme and participated in the translation of the coaching material.
- For Sony Spain I co-designed and co-led the "Leading Yourself and Coaching Others" workshop and coordinated the project.
- For Telefónica I facilitated group coaching sessions, and provided executive coaching, including feedback coaching using psychometric instruments. I have also been the project manager for the Telefónica Corporate University in-house CTI core curriculum.
- For Bayer Spain I have provided feedback coaching and follow up coaching.
- I have also been involved in work with other clients, including La Caixa and Sanitas.

During this period freelance work has included personal and executive coaching with professionals and small business owners, and with International MBA students at EADA (a Barcelona business school).

May 2002 to March 2006

Ultima Tours Ltd

Tour coordinator

I dealt with all administrative aspects of educational tours including contact with party leaders, transport companies, hotels etc and arranged excursions and concerts. I compiled information files about the most popular areas in various countries visited by our groups. I produced advertising and marketing material and represented the company at tourism workshops and on hotels/venues inspection visits.
