Core Co-Active Coaching Curriculum & Certification Program

This curriculum is highly rigorous and designed to ingrain coaching competencies deeply in your being rather than in your head, so that you can be responsive in the moment to a variety of client types and needs. The courses are in-person and involve a great deal of practicing with real people and real issues. Low student/faculty ratio leads to a great deal of personalized attention and discoveries. By the time you are finished with this curriculum you will have found your own unique style and voice as a coach and feel the deep confidence that arises from that. This core curriculum is the prerequisite for the Certification Program, which is ICF-accredited. Program format: Core Curriculum consists of five in-person courses. Fundamentals is a 2.5-day course, and the remaining four courses are 3-day courses. Certification is a six-month telecourse. Program prerequisites: None for the Core Co-Active Curriculum. For the Certification Program, students are eligible to begin the program following completion of the Process Course.

Organization & Relationship Systems Coaching

This is a groundbreaking work adding the dimensions of Organization and Relationship Systems coaching to your repertoire. It will greatly expand the coaching/consulting niches that you will be able to master, including coaching executive teams, project teams, business partnerships, and couples. It is a must for anyone doing corporate and executive coaching. In addition, this series will equally expand your effectiveness as a coach of individuals, since you will be able to coach the individual in the context of the relationship systems that he/she belongs to. Program format: Four in-person courses. Program prerequisites: Students may begin the program following completion of the Process Course.

Business Development Program

Every single person in today's economy is an entrepreneur, needing to know one's vision, key strengths, sustainable focus, and unique value proposition, in addition to knowing how to effectively "sell" and deliver that value to others. These competencies of entrepreneurship and business development are entirely different from coaching. They require a similar amount of time, study, practice, and support to master, CTI offers by far the most comprehensive training in business development skills in the industry. Similar to our coaching curriculum, the Business Development courses offer low student/faculty ratio, highly personalized attention, significant practice and feedback, and structured ongoing support from others, until you have mastered your own unique style, voice, and strengths as an entrepreneur. Program format: Consists of two telecourses. Program prerequisites: Students are eligible to begin this program following completion of the Co-Active Coaching Fundamentals Course.

Co-Active Leadership Program

Emotional Intelligence competencies have been proven in research to account for more than two thirds of the success of superior managers and leaders. The Co-Active Leadership program develops many crucial emotional intelligence competencies such as creating and leading from uncertainty and chaos, creating deep bonds and trust with others, sensing and tapping into the systemic field that influences people and results. busting through limitations of individual and collective mental models, creating with and from others, and leading with courage and conviction. These skills make the difference in both your success and fulfillment, whether you are a leader inside an organization, a leader as sole proprietor of your business, or a community leader. Program format: Four 5-6 day residential retreats over a ten-month period. Program prerequisites: There are no prerequisite requirements for this program.

Co-Active Network

The Co-Active Network is an online community gathering place for coaches, and people who are interested in coaching, to come together. It is a free service provided by The Coaches Training Institute, though one does not have to be a student or graduate of CTI to participate. Members come together to create learning, share resources, cultivate alliances, develop opportunities, and build community for the sake of forwarding and enhancing the lifelong process of human learning, effectiveness, and fulfillment.
